R. Broadbent, of Australia, Spends Day in Seymour Investigating Municipal Problems.

TELLS OF NATIVE COUNTRY

Soldiers Enlisting There Are Paid Same Salaries They Received in Their Regular Work.

With the view of obtaining first hand information concerning the various forms of municipal government in the United States, R. Broadbent, of Broken Hill, Australia, is touring the United States and spent today in Seymour with Mayor Ross and other city officials. He came to San Francisco several weeks ago to look after an exhibit which he had at the Panama-Pacific Exposition and after closing up his business affairs there started eastward and will remain a month in New York. He is giving special attention to garbage disposal systems in American cities and is particularly interested in the incinerating plants for because of the water shortage in Australia all refuse must be buried or burned. At this time the city in which he lives hauls its garbage for miles and then buries it. He believes that an improvement can be made over the present system used there and hopes to secure some good ideas in this country.

Mr. Broadbent said the principal reason he visited this city was to inspect the Farmers' Club. He said he had read of the unique institution in the Australian papers and made up his mind that when he returned to the United States he would visit this city and see what a "Farmers' Club was like." He was taken to the club building by Mayor Ross and he was much surprised to find such an elegantly furnished building. He declared he had no idea that he would find such a building. He inquired as to the details of the club organization and said he believed it would be an excellent institution for each community. He intends to explain the features of the club when he returns to Australia.

Mr. Broadbent is particularly interested in the European war as his daughter is in the Red Cross Service and two of his sons are in the military service. One is a lieutenant and the other is training men and boys at Broken Hill. He was not disposed to discuss the war except to say that the progress made by England is remarkable in his opinion and that he would not be surprised to see the conflict ended within the present year. He was pleased and enthusiastic over the loyalty of Australia in this crisis.

"We have over 200,000 men in the service," he said. "All of these are trained, equipped and paid by Australia. Many of the men at the front held splendid positions before enlisting but they are not losing any money while at the front. Practically all the firms of any standing are paying all their employees who enlisted the same salaries as if they were working steadily. For instance if a man received $100 a week his company sees that he gets the full amount while in military service. The difference between what the government pays its soldiers and the amount the employee received is either given to the soldier's family or is held until peace is declared. Each employee leaving work to enlist will get his position back as soon as the war is over." Whenever vacancies are reported in the Australian ranks there are others in training to take the places of the dead and wounded, he said.

Mr. Broadbent said that summer in Australia began in September or October and continued until February or the first of March. "The temperature back home is about 100 degrees now but it will begin to get cooler in a few weeks," he stated. The coolest weather in sixty years was recorded last August when the thermometer registered 28 degrees above zero. The former low mark, he said, was 28½ degrees but that is unusual.

He carried a number of pictures with him, and in the series was one showing an approaching sand storm. It was unusual in that when the storm is at its height the day is turned into night and everyone is required to shut himself in the house. All the lights are switched on, he said. Such storms are not frequent, there having been four in the last twelve years.

Adequate supply of water is the big problem in the community where Mr. Broadbent lives. The water system has been purchased by the government which sells 1,000 gallons for $1.25. He said that lower rates for private consumers would be ordered in a short time. The section in which he lives is a great mining district and produces one-fifth of all the lead and one-sixth of all the zinc that is produced in the world. Under the system in use in that country these mines pay a higher rate for water than the small consumers, the rate being fixed upon the ground that the mines are very profitable and can afford to pay the high rate. As soon as the government is reimbursed for the original cost of the water systems the rates to all consumers are to be lowered.

Australia is conducted under a labor government and practically everything is owned by the government. When the city desired to build an electric street car line recently an expert was sent to this country and to England to investigate the best tramway systems. He selected the best features of all systems and combined them with the result that the system which he devised is regarded as the best in the world. The fare charged is one cent anywhere in the territory of the original city and the highest fare is ten cents for a ride of about twelve miles to a neighboring city.

Mr. Broadbent carried some samples of ore with him. On some of the pieces were opals and garnets. All of them were rich in zinc, lead and silver. The mines from which the zinc and lead is now obtained were formerly silver mines. From this section of Australia come many of the gems sold in this country.

After spending the day here, Mr. Broadbent left for New York and after a month's stay there will leave for San Francisco and then sail for home. He said he was only twenty-four days away from home when he was in this city.

Mr. Broadbent said his father was one of the party that settled in South Australia and established that province December 28, 1836.

JURY UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT IN COX CASE

Special Judge O. B. Abel Dismisses Jurors After They Had Deliberated Several Hours.

After deliberating for several hours the jury that heard the case of the state against Paul Cox, charged with petit larceny, was unable to reach a verdict and was dismissed by Special Judge O. B. Abel after 10 o'clock Wednesday night. The case went to the jury early in the evening following a trial that continued for about two hours. It is said the jury stood six to six.

Cox was charged with having stolen about $20 from Bruce Robertson, of Brownstown, several weeks ago. The state showed that Robertson who is alleged to have been in an intoxicated condition, was put to bed by Cox and when he awakened the following morning the money which he thought was in his pocket when he retired was missing. The evidence against Cox was largely circumstantial and the jury did not believe it sufficient to convict him. He was defended by A. C. Branan. Deputy Prosecutor Montgomery was in charge of the state's case. The trial was originally set for Wednesday morning but the defendant was released when the prosecuting witnesses failed to appear. When Robertson reached this city from Franklin Cox was rearrested and the case was reset for trial immediately.

A Tour Among the Kachins.

More than usual interest is connected with the meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society, of the First Baptist Church this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting will be held at the church and the program consists of a stereopticon address illustrating with many beautifully colored pictures thrown on the screen the life of these hill people in one of the beautiful parts of the Orient. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody and especially to the members of other missionary societies in the city to attend. The address will be free, but a free will offering for the missionary work will be received at the door. All who have mite boxes are requested to bring them to this meeting. f10d

SPEAKER IS NAMED FOR MEETING HERE

George W. Brown to Address Men of Seymour at the Congregational Church Sunday Afternoon.

PROMINENT INDIANA LAYMAN

Local Ministers Assured that Meeting Will be One of Most Successful Ever Held Here.

The Rev. H. R. Booch, pastor of the St. Paul Congregational church, who was appointed by the City Ministerial Association to arrange for a speaker of the Men's Meeting at the Congregational church next Sunday afternoon, has received word from the committee in Indianapolis that the address here will be delivered by George W. Brown, a prominent layman in Indiana. The meeting will be held at 3 o'clock and a musical program that will be of especial interest to the men of this city and community has been arranged. Thomas A. Mott, superintendent of the city schools, has been chosen to introduce the speaker.

Mr. Brown has not only a pleasing style of oratory but will deliver a message that will be worth while to every man in this city. He will speak of the purpose of the great laymen's movement and of the meeting to be held in Indiana the last of this month and the first of March. He is a man with a purpose and his addresses are characterized by a force and earnestness that appeal to his auditors.

The men of Indiana are showing great interest in the laymen's meeting and quite a number from here are expected to attend. The meeting was planned to further the movement which has grown so rapidly throughout the country during the last few years and especially in the last two years. The purpose is to enlist more men in the active work of the church as it is realized that the success of religious work must depend to a very large degree upon the male members of the congregation.

The local ministers are enthusiastic over the prospects of a successful meeting here Sunday afternoon and it is expected that the Congregational church will be filled to its capacity. The meeting will be inter-denominational and all men of the city, whether members of any church or not, are cordially invited to be present.

The meeting was arranged at the instance of the state secretary of the laymen's movement and was at once endorsed by the local ministers when they were informed of the plan. The ministers at a recent meeting decided to hold the Sunday meeting at the Congregational church and are urging all the men of their congregations to attend.

The musical program for the afternoon will be arranged and announced later. The ministers are more than pleased that Mr. Brown has been selected as the local speaker and feel that his presence will mean much for the success of the meeting.

JUDGE COMPLETES WORK AT EXHIBIT

Awards Expected to be Made Late Today at the County Poultry Show at Brownstown.

ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE

Much Interest Shown in the Banquet to be Held for Members of Association Friday Noon.

Although this has been by far the most successful day of the Jackson County Poultry Show, the management is confident that the attendance Friday will be even larger. The banquet to be held at the noon hour for the members of the newly organized Poultry Association is expected to bring many visitors. The menu arranged for the banquet will include fried chicken and many other appetizing dishes which have been given names appropriate of the event. Following the meal addresses will be made as to the best means of making the association "a year around" organization so that the most benefit will come from it for the farmers.

Edward Chambers, of Connersville, who was named as judge of the show, completed his work about noon today. The ribbons were to be placed late this afternoon. Much interest is shown in the awards. While the premiums offered were not large there was a keen competition among the exhibitors for the honors.

County Agent Cobb is enthusiastic over the attendance at the show and believes that the poultry association will continue to grow from year to year until it is a potential force among the farmers. Many things are planned for the association among which is to establish a standard of eggs which will be guaranteed by the stamp of the association. The purposes of the association will be fully explained at the banquet.

County Agent Cobb believes that new egg markets can be created for the farmers in this county. He said there is a demand for fresh eggs in the East and that the prices paid there are higher. He thinks that if the poultry breeders will give attention to the right breeds of birds and will keep them under favorable conditions egg production can be made more profitable that it is at this time.

At the show there are several demonstrations showing the best means of housing hens and the proper feed for them under all conditions. The experimental farm at Purdue University has kept careful records of the results of several kinds of feed and the farmers are given the benefit of these records. The figures were prominently shown at the show.

EDITORIAL WRITER TAKES NOTICE OF ANIMAL STORY

Member of Courier-Journal Staff Laments That Trapper Didn't Get the Minks.

One of the learned and erudite editorial writers on the Louisville Courier-Journal, who probably knows as much about rural life as the average city bred man who is a keen observer while riding in a Pullman car on a speeding train, devotes a quarter of a column to discussing the story of how a trapper in this county found several small animals frozen to a plow beam after the recent flood. He delves deep into the possibilities of the trapper and doubtless had a pleasant time writing the editorial as a restful recreation after commenting on the strained relations of Germany and America and the sordid aspects of the titanic struggle in Europe. He evidently considered that the animals were clinging to the beam for pastime, probably as daily exercise, while the fields were flooded.

Under the heading of "A Tall Tale from the Timber," the writer in his entertaining style says:

A trapper entered an implement shed on a farm in the lowlands and was surprised to find five minks, six rabbits and a weasel hanging by their fore-feet to the steel beam of a plow. The shed was partly filled with water. The animals had sought safety from the flood. Their common distress prevented the carnivores from eating the rodents. Like the lion and the lamb which lay down side by side without the lamb being on the inside, the minks and the weasel stood up with the rabbits and placed their fore-feet on the plow beam to keep their heads above water. Not one of them crawled upon the plow handles. It was agreed, perhaps, that they should share alike in the benefits of the beam. The minks did not take advantage of their ability to crowd the rabbits off of their higher parts of the plow.

The weather was cold. The feet of the animals froze to the beam. The trapper decided to take home a rabbit and return for the rest of the fellow sufferers. But so tightly were the rabbit's forefeet frozen to the steel that they were released at the shoulder joints and remained hanging when the trapper caught the rabbit by the handquaters and started for home. When he returned the weather had moderated and the prisoners had been released.

A first-rate example of "the unusual," which always is news. The most remarkable feature of the story was, however, slighted. Mink pelts are worth from $2 to $2.50 each. So there was at least $10 worth of mink fur in sight when the trapper was content to carry home a two-legged rabbit and return some other day to get the minks. A remarkable trapper?

The utter confidence of the trapper in the cohesive qualities of a plow beam and a dozen mink feet under the influence of a given temperature for a given length of time—until, let us say, he should find it convenient to return for the pelts—is even more remarkable than that the minks and the rabbits by common impulse, planted their wet feet on the beam and stood still until they froze to it.

The leading feature of an unusual story—he it said to whom it may concern—should be, in the language of the local room, "developed." In other respects the story from Seymour is above criticism as a tall tale from the tall timber.

HEAVY GERMAN LOSSES IN FIGHTING ALONG SOMME

60,000 Reported Lost in Fierce Engagement Along the Somme—Snow Storm Raging.

By United Press.

London, February 10—German losses in the fierce fighting going on for nearly ten days for the Vimy Heights and along the Somme, have totaled 60,000, more than the British suffered in the offensive at Loos, according to information received here today.

The fighting is proceeding with great fury in a heavy snow storm, according to the latest dispatches from Paris. The French are counter-attacking with great vigor near the point where the Germans claimed the capture of half-mile of French trenches near Vimy, in Tuesday night's dispatches.

DEPARTMENT ASKS FOR EXPLANATION

Austrian Submarine Commander Charged with Taking Stores from Standard Oil Tanker.

CAPTAIN FILES AFFIDAVIT

Swears that Shots were Fired After His Ship was Stopped—Refused to Sell Provisions.

By United Press.

Washington, February 10.—Austria must explain to the United States why one of her submarine commanders stopped the American ship Petrolite, a Standard Oil tanker, in eastern Mediterranean waters and helped himself to stores aboard. In making this statement Secretary Lansing said the request to Austria, for an explanation was not a note but he said also that perhaps there may be demands made later.

The request for information, it was learned today, is based on affidavits received by mail from Captain Thompson of the Petrolite which supplemented naval affidavits and which cleared up the question of the identity of the submarine.

Captain Thompson's affidavit set forth that he was bound from Alexandria to Philadelphia. He said the Petrolite was flying the stars and stripes and had her name and nationality painted in large, white letters on her side. While he was below decks, Thompson swore, he was startled by a sound of a shot. He rushed to the bridge and stopped the ship.

One man, a Dane, was wounded by a shot fired after the ship stopped, he said. When the submarine commander ran along side, the Austrian commander asked Thompson to sell him some provisions. Thompson refused. The Austrian submarine commander replied:

"We'll take them anyway." Then, according to Thompson, an American seaman was taken on board the submarine as a hostage while the Austrians helped themselves to the stores.

A report which was not denied at the state department today was that Thompson's affidavit continued mention of a shot fired by the submarine while Thompson was on his way in a small boat to present his ship's papers to the submarine commander.

Despite the seeming seriousness of the incident, officials today refused to see another crisis in the Petrolite case. They insisted that if they believed the facts stated in the Thompson affidavit are correct Austria will respond to the American request for information with a voluntary offer of reparation and indemnity.

COMMANDER OF TOURAINE REFUSED TO HEED SIGNAL

Declared that He Feared a Commerce Raider Might be Luring His Ship to Destruction.

By United Press.

New York, February 10.—Fearing that a German commerce raider was luring his ship to destruction, Captain Cauffin of the French liner Touraine, refused to answer the wireless distress signal sent out by an unidentified vessel while enroute from Bordeaux to New York. The story of the Touraine commander was corroborated by passengers on the liner's arrival here today.

He justified his action in refusing to answer the distress signal on the ground that he might imperil the lives of 260 passengers on board.

EXPECT NO HITCH IN LUSITANIA CASE

Speedy Ending of Dispute Almost Assured.

Washington, Feb. 10.—Although confident that no further hitch will develop to interfere with the formal closing of the Lusitania controversy, officials of the American government and members of the German embassy staff, are making no comments for publication pending word from Berlin.

Unless this confidence is misplaced it is expected that by Monday or Tuesday Count von Bernstorff will be able to present to Secretary Lansing a formal note from his government setting forth in the express terms agreed upon by the ambassador and the secretary, Germany's acquiescence in the American demands for a settlement.

At the same time that this note is received, which will take the shape of a formal reply to the American note of July 21, last, Secretary Lansing will address to Berlin a formal acceptance, thus closing the final chapter of the correspondence.

The only possibility lying in the way of a speedy ending of the dispute is a refusal by the German foreign office to endorse a single change in phraseology agreed to by Count von Bernstorff at the suggestion of Secretary Lansing.

Mrs. Joe Steele went to Vallonia this morning to spend the day.

VEGETABLE CALOMEL

Vegetable calomel, extract of the root of the old-fashioned may-apple plant, does not salivate. As a liver stimulant, it's great. It's a perfect substitute for ordinary calomel (mercury); in fact, it's better, because its action is gentle instead of severe and irritating—and it leaves no mean, disagreeable after-effects. Physicians recognize this and prescribe may-apple root (podophyllin, they call it) daily.

Combined with four other standard, all-vegetable remedies, may-apple root may now be had at most any druggist's in convenient sugar-coated tablet form by asking for Santal Laxatives. If you forget the name, ask for the box that has the picture of the soldier on it.

These tablets are small, easy to take and are really wonderful little performers.

They quickly clean out the poisons that are causing you headache, constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, dizzy spells, bad breath and coated tongue.

They are mild. They never gripe. And they are a bowel tonic as well as a cleanser and liver regulator. A 10c box should last one several weeks. A Physician's trial package (4 doses) will be mailed you free if you write mentioning this advertisement. The Santal Remedies Co., 802 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

32 INDICTED IN GERMAN PLOT

Accused of Violating Neutrality Laws.

CONSULAR AGENTS INVOLVED

Involved in Alleged Plots to Blow Up Canadian Tunnels and American Powder Mills — Others Charged With Alleged Shipping Plots.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 10.—The broadness of the government's proposed prosecution of alleged German bomb and shipping plots, involving German consular officials, ship owners, agents and sellers of supplies, was shown as detail of indictments voted against thirty-two men and firms became known.

Even the little barkentine Retriever, tied to her wharf in the bay, was involved because of an alleged contemplated trip to coal German warships off the heads more than a year ago in the guise of a motion picture expedition.

John W. Preston, United States district attorney, worn out by the work of the neutrality investigation, was taken from his office to a hospital for a rest, deemed necessary by his physician.

The complete list of those indicted follows:

For conspiracy to interfere with commerce under the Sherman anti-trust act and for conspiracy to organize a military expedition: Franz Bopp, consul general for Germany; Baron Eckhardt H. von Schack, vice consul general; Baron George Wilhelm von Bricken, attache; Johannes Henrykus von Koelbergen, alleged German agent; Charles C. Crowley, detective employed by German consulate; Mrs. Margaret W. Cornell, assistant to Crowley.

All these are involved in alleged plots to blow up Canadian tunnels and American powder mills.

For conspiracy to defraud the government in the alleged shipping plots involving the Retriever, Sacramento, Hazatlan, Olson and Mahony; Henry W. E. Kauffmann, chancellor of the German consulate general; Robert Capelle, agent here for the North German-Lloyd Steamship company; Maurice Hall, consul-general for Turkey; John and Joseph Rothchild, wholesale grocers; George and James Flood, ship owners and brokers; Philip R. Thayer, president of the Northern and Southern Steamship company; R. M. Swayne of Swayne & Hoyt, shipping brokers; John G. Hoyt, of same firm; C. D. Bunker of C. D. Bunker & Co.; Captain Fred Jensen of the Mazatlan, ship owner, reported recently killed on a German submarine; Dr. Simon Reimer, reputed German naval officer; J. E. Bien, attorney; T. A. Anderson, captain of the Sacramento; Benno Klooke, Gustav Traub, Adolph Wimmel and T. R. Johansen, all of the Sacramento's crew; George Phillips and Frederick Williams, supposed to be fictitious names.

The following firms: Northern and Southern Steamship company, C. D. Bunker & Co. and Swayne & Hoyt.

The specifications in the charge of conspiracy to defraud the government, varying in different instances, are in these grounds:

First—Conspiracy to violate the neutrality by making San Francisco a supply base for belligerent ships at sea.

Second—Conspiracy to defraud through false manifests.

Third—Conspiracy to defeat neutrality by supplying belligerent ships with stores to which they were not entitled.

DROP BOMBS ON BRITISH COAST

German Aviators Attack English Seaports.

TEUTONS MAKE NEW GAINS

Berlin Reports Capture of French First Line Position—Allies May Begin Offensive Movement in the Balkans—Russians Continue Gains.

London, Feb. 10.—Another Zeppelin raid was attempted on England during the afternoon in which two women and one child were injured by bombs. The official statement of the raid does not give the number of dirigibles attacking, nor its location, but it is assumed that it affected only towns close to the sea, as the report states that the dirigibles retreated immediately when a number of sea planes and aeroplanes rose to meet them.

The following statement was given out by the war office:

"In a Zeppelin raid two women and one child were injured. A number of naval and military aeroplanes and sea planes ascended the raiders retreated immediately. No engagement was reported."

New gains for the Germans in the region between Lens and Arras, not far south of the Belgian border, were announced by Berlin, which reports the capture of first line French positions along nearly a half-mile front on the west of Vimy.

In some quarters, the recent German assaults in this region are regarded as primarily defensive operations designed to win back commanding positions which would give the entente forces an advantage in any forward movement they may attempt in the future. It has been persistently reported, however, that the Germans were on the point of launching a determined offensive in northern France and Belgium, in which case the operations in the present area of activity would have an important bearing.

The latest advices concerning these supposed preparations came from Amsterdam in the shape of a report that 600,000 men have been sent by the Germans to the Belgian frontier.

From the Balkans comes news indicating that there is no longer the former apparent unanimity of opinion that the Teutonic allies are shortly to begin an advance on Salonica. It is even declared in one unofficial quarter that the entente allies are preparing to take the offensive.

Petrograd declares that the engagements in the Caucasus have continued to result in advantage to the Russians.

General Sir Horace Lockwood Smith-Dorrien has relinquished the command of the British forces operating in East Africa, owing to ill health. It was officially announced.

General Jan Christian Smuts, the minister of the interior, mines and defenses of the Union of South Africa, has accepted the vacancy with the rank of temporary lieutenant general, the announcement added.

Interest in the operations on the eastern front again centers upon the Riga-Dvinsk sections, where Field Marshall von Hindenburg's forces are displaying increased activity, especially with heavy artillery. The fighting around the important railroad city and fortress of Dvinsk has been resumed with all the violence of the attackers and stubbornness of the defenders that marked the climax of the great German offensive in Russia last fall. According to German reports the Russians have been repulsed.

WOUNDS HIS SON-IN-LAW

Jesse Hunter Shoots William Leatherbury in the Later's Home.

Osgood, Ind., Feb. 10.—William Leatherbury was shot and wounded at his home in Cross Plains by Jesse Hunter, his father-in-law. Three shots were discharged from a revolver, one taking effect in a wrist and another in a lung. The third shot missed. Leatherbury is in a serious condition.

The shooting was in a bedroom at the Leatherbury home, Hunter having gone there from his own home a short distance away, according to reports received here. The two men had had difficulties previously and a lawsuit, was pending.

Hunter says he shot in self-defense. He was confined in the Southeastern Hospital for the Insane at Madison, for some time, about three years ago.

Governor Whitman Refuses Clemency to Ex-Priest.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10.—Governor Whitman has decreed that the second of the celebrated murder trials prosecuted by him as district attorney of New York, should end in death for the convicted man, when, as in the case of Becker, he refused to interfere with the sentence upon Hans Schmidt, the ex-priest, convicted of murdering Anna Amuller on Sept. 2, 1913.

Schmidt was notified of the governor's decision and told to prepare to be electrocuted at Sing Sing next week, the exact time and date to be announced by Warden Kichwey.

HASTEN WORK ON DEFENSE BILLS

Senate Concludes Hearings on Army Measures.

PLAN TO FEDERALIZE MILITIA

Naval Bill Passes Senate and Is Now Ready For the President's Signature — House to Act on Army Bill Within Two Weeks.

Washington, Feb. 10.—With President Wilson personally urging both Democratic and Republican members of the house military committee to hasten preparation of bills to carry out the army's part in the national preparedness scheme, indications are that the measures might be ready for the house within two weeks or less.

Hearings will come to a close today or Friday, and it is understood the main features of the bill already have been whipped into shape in which it is expected they will receive virtually the unanimous approval of the committee.

The senate committee has already concluded its hearings on army bills and will take up the work of drafting its proposals for the senate early next week. The bills of the two houses, it is expected, will differ radically, and the final legislation will be worked out as a compromise in conference.

Progress also was made on navy legislation, the house bill providing for universal facilities of navy yards and more midshipmen at Annapolis having been passed. The bill is now ready for the president's signature.

Speaker Clark, in line with his recent speech in the house advocating that the personnel at both Annapolis and West Point be doubled, introduced a bill to make such an increase in the number of cadets at the military academy.

Democrats and Republicans of the committee agreed in saying that an army bill would be quickly written, although there might be minor details which would take considerable debate to settle. The feature of the house bill it was said, would be federalization of the militia through a pay bill carrying limitations designated to give the war department peace-time control of training and officering of the national guard.

For the regular army the bill probably will provide the 40,000 additional men asked for by Secretary Garrison, although the committee is said to be about equally divided on the Hay and Garrison plans for making the increase. Representative Hay proposes to fill existing regiments up to full war strength and increase only the number of artillery regiments, while Secretary Garrison has asked for additional skeleton regiments of infantry and artillery to make up tactical divisions.

BANKRUPTCY LAW REPEAL

Declares Present Act Makes Rascals Bold and Honest Men Timid.

Washington, Feb. 10.—A repeal of the present bankruptcy laws was urged before the house judiciary committee by Oscar B. McGlasson of Chicago, president of the Anti-Bankruptcy Law association; W. C. McConaghey, Parkersburg, W. Va.; J. W. Howell, Des Moines, Ia.; D. H. Bethard, of Peoria, Ill., and George B. Watson, of Boston.

Mr. McGlasson told the committee that "the bankruptcy laws make the rascal bold, honest men timid, and are an invitation to fraud and a check to honorable business." He said the present bankruptcy law was placed on the statutes as a temporary measure to permit business men to overcome the effects of the great panic of 1897.

U. S. TO TAKE UP ISSUE WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Sharp Protests on Several Points to Be Made.

Washington, Feb. 10.—With the settlement of the Lusitania dispute with Germany assured, the administration now is prepared to bring to a head many questions in which Great Britain and her allies are deeply interested. They include:

A further and sharper protest against the illegal interference with American mails.

A demand that the allies live up to their original assurances that they would not place cotton on the contraband list.

A demand that the allies keep their promises to permit American importers to bring to the United States, goods, now in Holland warehouses, of Austrian and German origin, valued at $16,000,000.

A demand that Great Britain accept the views of this government regarding the right of Americans to trade with neutral countries without being subjected to the annoyances which now interfere with the importers of the United States.

It is understood that all the data for these demands will be prepared by Secretary of State Lansing, but that only one or two will go forward until after the return of Colonel E. M. House to this country. He is expected back in about two or three weeks. He will bring with him data that President Wilson considers of the utmost importance. Incidentally, he also will report to the president whether Europe is ready for peace proposals.

J. A. Linke, of Lafayette, was here this morning on business and went to Brownstown to spend the day.

“Why Swear, Dear? Use ‘Gets-It’ for Corns!”

It's the New Plan. Simple. Sure as Fate. Applied in a Few Seconds.

“Why, John, I never knew you to use such language! I’ve told you several times it’s no use to try those bandages, salves, tapes, plasters, and contraptions for corns. Here’s some ‘Gets-It,’ it’s just wonderful how easy, ‘clear and clean’ it makes any corn come right off. Takes but a few seconds to apply. It dries at once. Put your sock on right over it,—there’s nothing to stick or roll up, form a bundle of your toe, or press on the corn. It’s painless, simple as rolling off a log. Now put away those knives, razors and scissors, use ‘Gets-It’ and you’ll have a sweeter disposition and no more corns and calluses.

“Gets-It” is sold by druggists everywhere. 25c, a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Let’s Start Forgetting.

Cooks.

Cooks may come and cooks may go—but mostly the latter. A cook in the kitchen is worth twenty-seven in the employment agency.

Too many cooks spoil the broths, meats, vegetables and pastry. The wages of cooks are death—to incomes.

The old-fashioned cook, the one who used to get up the meals, wait on table, wash the dishes, tend the children and do the family washing, isn’t a cook any more, she’s a retinue of servants.

Any cook knows her place and she is firmly convinced that it isn’t the kitchen.—Hayword Bartlett, in Judge.

As if shrapnel and bullets weren’t bad enough, a Paris opera company has camped back of the French lines and is going to add to the anguish of the brave boys in the trenches by warbling some of their high falutin’ tunes.

The Aftermath.

The banquet was at its height. The sparkling wine was flowing like the water that used to come down at Lodore in the old Third Reader, and the Gentleman-whom-we-have-with-us-this-evening was rolling on and on. Unnoticed by the guests, a company of Indigestions, Bustheads, Gouts, Dropsies, Lethargies, and so forth, clasped hands and danced around the festal board in transports of glee.

A sore throat is a good breeding place for Diphtheria germs. Protect your children by never neglecting a Sore Throat. You can wisely depend upon TONSILINE. Give Tonsiline upon the first appearance of Sore Throat—don’t give Diphtheria a chance in that throat in its weakened condition. When TONSILINE is swallowed it comes directly in contact with the diseased surface and induces a healthy condition of the membranes—then the system can better defend the throat if attacked by Diphtheria germs. Has Used Chamberlain’s Cough Remedy for 20 Years.

“Chamberlain’s Cough Remedy has been used in my household for the past twenty years. I began giving it to my children when they were small. As a quick relief for croup, whooping cough, and ordinary colds, it has no equal. Being free from opium and other harmful drugs, I never felt afraid to give it to the children. I have recommended it to a large number of friends and neighbors, who have used it and speak highly of it,” writes Mrs. Mary Minkie, Shortsville, N. Y. Obtainable everywhere.

SPELLING SAYS BRANDEIS IS UNFRIENDLY TO CAPITAL

First Witness Before Senator Investigating Committee Refers to 1910 Rate Case.

By United Press.

Washington, February 10—Senate investigators of Lewis D. Brandeis’ fitness to sit on the supreme bench, who yesterday heard him criticized as too friendly to capital, today heard him criticized as too unfriendly to capital by Thomas C. Former Postmaster-General Says He is not Promoting any Such Organization.

By United Press.

New York, February 10—Frank H. Hitchcock, former postmaster-general, is not managing a campaign for the nomination of Justice Hughes for president, according to a statement in denial of a Washington report.

SECOND CHOICE VOTES.

For the first time Indiana voters will have the privilege of balloting their second choice for candidates in the March primaries. If the result is the same as in other states where this system has been in use the privilege will not be exercised by the majority of the voters. However, if any considerable number vote for more than one candidate there is a possibility of the polls being congested, especially during the rush hours. In this county there are a number of candidates seeking the same nomination and in case of close races it is probable that second choice votes will be a determining factor in the outcome.

Concerning this the Washington Herald editorially says:

It is unlikely, however, that many of the voters will pay any attention to the second choice voting. Even in states where the plan has been tried for several years, only about one voter in every four or five, we are told, votes a second choice.

With the bed-blanket ballots that will have to be used in many counties the act of voting a first choice is onerous enough without complicating it with second choice votes.

By increasing the voting facilities two or three times more than at present, it is hoped to accommodate those who desire to vote in the primaries. Notwithstanding these precautions, it is feared that many voters will not be able to get into the voting booths.

It is not possible to estimate closely the cost to the state of the primaries, but the sum will not be short of a half million dollars and may run nearer a million than $500,000. The greater part of the cost will be paid out of the county funds by the individual counties, as the counties must pay for all ballots, extra booths, ballot boxes, advertising and wages of election boards. Counties that have put in voting machines will have to provide entire sets of booths and ballot boxes, as the voting machines cannot be used in the primaries. This will be the case in Marion county, with its multitude of election precincts. It is thought the primary will cost Marion county approximately $40,000.

TAXING PERSONAL PROPERTY.

The members of the state tax board are going around the state urging the county and township assessors to boost the appraisal of personal property for purposes of taxation. Every year about this time the assessors are given instruction to this effect. The state board congratulates itself upon the splendid increases that have been made in recent years, but is the increased valuation not being made on property that is already standing more than its share of the burden? Equalization is to be desired in any taxing system. It is being urged that all personal property be taxed on the same basis. This, of course, is a splendid plan and one that should be followed but after all Indiana's tax laws fail when it comes to appraising concealed securities which should be taken along with household goods which are a necessity to every home.

Certain classes of property will escape taxation under almost any sort of laws. What Indiana needs is a readjustment of these laws. Along with the higher appraisements year after year come higher rates of taxation until in many cities rental property is no longer a profitable investment. Corporations under the rules of the Indiana Utility Commission are entitled to seven per cent. dividend above all expenses and after allowing liberally for depreciation of the property. Certainly holdings of citizens should be entitled to the same rate of interest. When this right is removed the advancement of cities, counties and even the state will be seriously hampered.

At a recent meeting of the county board of charities and corrections a basic principle was discussed—that of giving of alms unwisely. Charity is a great virtue, but there is a possibility of it doing as much harm as good. Such funds ought to be placed where they are needed. Assistance should be given to those who are worthy of help and who because of sickness or other unavoidable reasons are unable to make themselves independent. No doubt a great work in this direction will be accomplished during the next few years as the need is apparent.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Care of the Baby

(This is the second of a series, "Care of the Baby," prepared by the Children's Department of the U. S. Department of Labor.)

After the Second Year.

When the baby reaches the third year he should be fed four times a day at regular intervals, having the heaviest meal in the middle of the day.

It is of the utmost importance to teach him to chew his food carefully and thus to take plenty of time at his meals. But since his tiny teeth can only partly masticate his food, this should be properly prepared for him. Meat should be cut into small pieces, vegetables either mashed or put through the colander, and all the cores, skins and seeds should be removed from fruits.

He should not be allowed to drink while eating solid food, lest he fall into the habit of washing down his food before it is thoroughly chewed, as do so many of his elders.

The following foods are recommended for children from two to three years; and a daily program is suggested for the convenience of the mothers:

7:30 a. m.—Cereal—Well cooked oat, wheat or corn preparations, with thin cream or milk and very little sugar. Cereals should be cooked three hours in a double boiler, and flavored with a little salt when being cooked.

Glass of whole milk, warmed in the cool months of the year.

Egg—Soft-boiled, poached or coddled.

Toast—Or dry bread and butter.

10:00 a. m.—Fruit—Use one orange and strain the juice,—or a baked apple, and two graham crackers; or Warm Milk—One glass, with dry bread or toast.

2:00 p. m.—Vegetable Soup—One teaspoonful,—or meat broths with rice or arrowroot.

Meat—Beef, mutton, or chicken, broiled, roasted or boiled; or fish; cut into small pieces, flavored with a little salt. Use no pepper, sauces or condiments.

Potato—Baked, mashed, with a little salt, butter and milk, or salt and cream; or, boiled rice or spaghetti, both thoroughly cooked; with butter or cream.

Green Vegetables—Either carrots, asparagus, string beans, peas, spinach, young beets, or squash, each cooked until very soft, with a little salt in the water, strained through a colander or mashed.

Dessert—Apple tapioca pudding, or baked apple, or apple sauce or stewed prunes, or plain custard, or junket.

Drink—Water. No milk at this meal.

Stale bread—With Butter.

6:00 p. m.—Bread and milk; or cereal,—farina, arrowroot, or wheat,—or milk; or, milk toast; or dry toast or bread with glass of milk.

Raw fruit juice and milk should not be given at the same meal.

Do not give a child of this age any of the following foods: Pork in any form, or salted meats or salted fish; cabbage, onions, celery, radishes, lettuce, cucumbers or raw tomatoes; hot breads or griddle cakes, sweet cakes, pastry, syrups, or jellies; nuts or candies; bananas; nor any green or overripe fruit; tea, coffee, wine, beer, cider or soda water. Mothers are apt to err chiefly in the matter of sweets in feeding children. An excess of sweet food not only upsets the young stomach but destroys partially the appetite for plain food.

Children should be taught to eat simple, well-cooked food, but should not be forced to eat when they have no appetite. If a child shows a disinclination to eat some special food which he ought to have, this should be given first at the meal, even if only a small quantity is eaten. Do not fall into the error of scolding the child at meal times, which should be one of the pleasantest hours of the day, full of fun and joy. A little judicious coaxing will usually result in the child taking the right food in sufficient quantity.

Method of preparing meats, vegetables and soups for young children are given in Infant Care, a little book, which is sent free to all who ask for it, addressing the request to the Chief of the Children's Bureau, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington, D. C.

this year's bisque hued crop promises less violence and more quiet effectiveness.

As befitting a neutral nation that other most neutral of tints, pearl grey, will also have its place in the monotonous of our most modern frocks. Of a necessity then the modern maid, deliberately going against the admonition of Mr. Omar to fling her winter garment of repentance aside for the fires of Spring will change instead her flame hued garb of Winter for the ashes of a new sartorial season.

And so a grey or tan mark will be added to the aggregate mass of black marks against the war by the woman of Fashion. But between you and me, after viewing the Ballet Russe backed by Bakst with its chaotic and unrestrained riot of colors, I can't believe that the poor old war is the only thing responsible for the alarming shortage of dyes.

To Clean Ivory and Silver.

To keep silver bright that is not in use, lay a piece of gum camphor in the drawer or box in which the silver is kept, and you will not have to clean your silver so often.

Whenever the silver has become scratched it can be made quite smooth by rubbing it well with a piece of chamois leather that has been rolled into a tight bag and dipped into sweet oil.

If a little ammonia is added to the water in which silver or glassware is washed, it makes a difference, brightening it wonderfully. Ammonia is good for removing grease from dishes too.

To keep French ivory white, wash it with alcohol instead of water. This is particularly useful in caring for the popular toilet sets and similar articles. Piano keys should also be cleaned in this way. Water should not be used on them.

In cleaning ivory knife handles rub them well with half a lemon dipped in salt. This will make them beautiful.

fully white. After this treatment, they should be well washed in cold water and thoroughly dried.

Ivory knife handles which have yellowed may also be whitened by soaking them in alum water which has been boiled. The water must be allowed to cool and the ivory should be left soaking for an hour. Then brush them with a nail brush and dry thoroughly with a soft towel.

The Home Winter Garden.

Table Fernery—Plant carrot seeds in rather deep pots. The feathery tops of the carrots are as pretty as ferns. Carrots are healthy, but the old ones are strong and unpalatable. By planting a few crocks or a window box you have the pretty leaves and the young carrots to use.

Japanese Garden—Take large round dish (a metal platter will do), and place the tops of vegetables in it. Cut them about an inch thick. Carrots, white turnips, horseradish and sweet potatoes are nice. After they have sprouted you can buy small Japanese jars for them.

For Luncheons.

Fig Sandwiches—Six ounces chopped figs, half wineglass water, one tablespoon sherry wine, some stiffly whipped cream, some candied violets and angelica. Stew the figs slowly till water is absorbed, then add the wine, allow to cool and spread on some lady fingers. Decorate the top with the whipped cream, the violets and small piece of angelica.

Parisian Chicken Sandwiches—Breast of one chicken, six tablespoons powdered gelatine, three tablespoons water, salt and red pepper. Chop the chicken fine and pound to a paste. Add salt and pepper. Dissolve the gelatine in water and add the cream. Add gradually the chicken. Set aside until cool. Then cut into squares and put away to harden. Slice very thin and place between thin slices of buttered bread.

Women Who Lead the Way

By Marie Dille.

Mrs. Aletha Gilbert is known as "City Mother-in-Chief" of Los Angeles, and this article tells, something about her work.

California, the state of experiment, has yet another to its credit, and this time one that seems destined to accomplish much good if one may judge by the reforms which it has already brought about. Los Angeles is the first city in the world to establish a City Mothers' Council, although police boards for women is not a new idea. This organization is decidedly different and is now little more than three years old.

The bureau was organized by Mrs. Aletha Gilbert, who was appointed City Mother-in-Chief. She is assisted by an advisory board of eleven members, who serve without pay. The purpose of the bureau is to prevent delinquency, protect dependents and give public protection without the disgrace which often follows the seeking of it through regular channels. It is in reality a branch of the police department, clothed with police authority.

Its offices are far away from the sordid surroundings and oppressive atmosphere of a police station. They are situated in the most cheerful environment, amid business-like surroundings, suggestive of anything rather than criminals. All of the dealings of this bureau are strictly confidential and the headquarters are a haven to troubled mothers and erring, ignorant girls.

One of the great external accomplishments of the City Mothers' Bureau is the inaugurating of a series of municipal dances, which are given by the bureau and chaperoned by the women of the board. The result of this has already been to minimize the number of young people in attendance at questionable dance halls.

Plans are now under way for the erection of a free municipal amusement hall. The City Mothers are also undertaking the building of an industrial school where young girls who are dependent may become self-supporting.

Mrs. Gilbert is quite as little like a police judge as the City Mothers' Council is like a police station. She is a kind-faced, motherly woman, well past middle age. She has soft gray hair that rolls back from a broad forehead, and her eyes are kind and blue. She has unmistakable stamps of refinement and culture and her personality leaves its influence on the girls who are brought under her care.

For all of her kindly matronliness Mrs. Gilbert has a shrewd way of going to the roots of difficulties and righting them from the ground up.

Mrs. Gilbert has been prominent in Los Angeles society and club work. She has to her credit the beginning of many of the most noteworthy reforms that have been brought about by the Los Angeles Federation. She took up her work on the police board as a more practical way of accomplishing lasting good and learning of the true conditions that were being worked against. The City Mothers' Bureau was the result.

Favorite Recipes

LOBSTER WITH CREAM SAUCE.

For this you will need one lobster (three pounds live weight), one tablespoonful of flour, five mushrooms, one tablespoonful of butter, one-half pint of milk, salt and pepper to taste. Boil the lobster by first plunging it head downward into warm, not boiling water, putting over a quick fire and bringing quickly to a boil. A medium-sized lobster should boil half an hour, a big one three-quarters. Cut into dice. Put the butter in a frying pan and, when melted, add the flour. Do not brown but mix until smooth. Add the milk and stir constantly until it boils. Add the mushrooms, chopped fine, salt, pepper, and lobster, and stir until thoroughly heated. Serve in paper cases or in individual ramekin dishes.

STUFFED POTATOES.

Wash and scrub medium sized potatoes and bake in very slow oven until done. Remove from oven and cut in half length-wise; scoop out inside and put into a warm bowl with one tablespoon chopped celery hearts, one tablespoon sweet cream, one tablespoon sweet butter, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, salt and pepper to taste. Mash until perfectly light, then put into potato ricer and press back into halves of shells. Place on platter with a fancy doily and stick a sprig of holly in the center. These are new and delicious.

LIGHT CHOCOLATE CAKE.

Two ounces grated chocolate, three or four ounces fine flour, six eggs, six ounces sifted sugar, a few drops vanilla; raspings. Beat the yolks of the eggs with the vanilla, whisk the whites to a stiff froth, drop the yolks slowly into the whites, beating all the time; then add gradually the sugar, chocolate and lastly the flour, and beat until they are well mixed. Grease a cake tin, sprinkle it with raspings, turn the mixture into it and bake at once in a well heated oven for one hour; turn the cake onto a sieve and stand on its side to cool.

SOFT COCOANUT GINGERBREAD.

Cream together one cup sugar and half cup shortening, add two well-beaten eggs, one cup molasses, three cups flour, one cup sour milk (stir in half of the milk, in the other half dissolve one and one-half teaspoons baking soda), add one cup shredded cocoanut, one teaspoon each of powdered nutmeg and a few drops of lemon essence. Mix well, turn into well greased and floured shallow pan; bake one hour.

SPARERIBS STUFFED WITH APPLES.

Get two strips of spareribs the same size. Salt and pepper to taste. Cut enough sour apples in quarters (wash but do not peel) to fill spareribs. Sew up both sides so apples can't fall out. Put in roasting pan and add two sliced onions, two bay leaves and eight whole allspice. Add water, same as for other roasts, and bake until done. Thicken gravy with a little flour. Gravy and meat are fine, the apples flavoring both.

SOUTHERN RICE BREAD.

Two cups white cornmeal, three eggs, one and one-fourth pints milk, one cup cold boiled rice, two tablespoons butter, four teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt. Beat eggs. Add milk, meal, salt and butter. Beat. Add baking powder. Beat again. Bake in three greased pie dishes thirty minutes.

WALDORF SALAD.

Two cups diced apples, one cup hickory nut meats, one cup celery, two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons vinegar, one-half cup sweet cream. Celery can be omitted if not handy. Mayonnaise dressing can be used instead of the sweet cream.

MARSHMALLOW CREAM.

Whip one pint double cream, sweeten a little, flavor with vanilla. To the whipped cream add one-half pound marshmallows cut in small pieces. Mix and let stand three hours in a cool place. Serve in sherbets with a cherry on top.

GINGER CAKE.

Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup butter, three eggs, one cup molasses, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon baking soda, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, two cups flour.

CORN PUFFS.

Season corn with salt, pepper and a tablespoonful of melted butter, add enough flour to make a stiff batter. Have a vessel or frying pan half full of hot lard and drop in spoonfuls of the corn and fry to a golden brown.

GINGER COOKIES.

Mix together one pint Orleans molasses, three tablespoons ginger, one tablespoon soda; dissolve soda in one-fourth pint warm water. Mix dough stiff enough to roll nicely.

Novelty in Muffs

The muff bag is a novel affair, which will be appreciated by the business or society woman, who always seems to have her hands encumbered with purse, small packages, muff and what not.

The article is a combination of muff, purse and shopping bag. It is to be had in fine velvet, lined with silk, or it may be made of satin or cloth to match the costume. In one end of the bag lining is a deep purse made on a special gold-plated frame. The ends of the muff have double drawstrings of narrow, satin-back velvet ribbon which may be drawn and tied at one end to form the bottom of the shopping bag, while the ribbon at the other end forms convenient loops for carrying.

Household Hints

Far better than either the felt or quilted silence cloth is the one of asbestos. This cloth protects the table top, not only from the spots made by hot dishes, but also from stains and damage done by hot liquids being spilled. The cloth is water proof as well as heat proof; it is, of course, lintless, and is finished with a neat binding. It is made in halves, each consisting of three strongly bound and hinged sections. It does not warp and may be folded and put in the sideboard drawer when not in use.

To prevent the unsightly stretching of the shoulder seams of sweaters, stitch a piece of dress braid under the shoulder seam. If the braid matches in color, and is stitched with a fine thread on each edge, it scarcely shows, and long wear and much washing will stretch the shoulder but very little.

Quite the newest way of making a casing to run ribbon through is by making a wide catstitch or feather-stitch on the outside of the article to be used, and through this run the ribbon. It holds as well as the old-fashioned way.

A novel way to protect a silk down puff from soiling on top is to catstitch a piece of muslin twelve inches wide to the top and embroider your monogram or initial in the center. When it is soiled it can easily be removed, laundered and put back again.

To bleach white goods which have become yellow with age, wash in the usual manner, then plunge them into thin boiling hot starch. Allow them to remain in the starch until cold, wring them out and hang to dry in the bright sunlight. The result will be worth the effort.

Wash cut glass in warm water with a little pure alcohol added (one tablespoon alcohol to one quart of water).

Silk lace that has become yellow may be bleached by exposing it in the sun while wet.

To make your white hydrangea blue instead of pink, pot it in a small zine tub and put nails or old iron close to the roots.

Leaving the pan turned over the cake when it is taken from the oven keeps it moist by steaming and leaves no hard crust on top of the layers. Let the pan stay on until ready to frost the cake.

Brass work can be kept beautifully bright by occasionally rubbing with salt and vinegar.

MARGARET MASON'S FASHION LETTER

(Written for the United Press.)

New York, February 10.—Positively the only way you can go in for color effects this coming Spring and Summer is to turn green with envy, have a yellow streak, a fit of blues or red yourself up to be the pink of neatness. They do say that all is fair in love and war, but it's been mighty hard for some of us to be fair with the recent embargo on peroxide. Fortunately that has just been lifted and hearts and heads are once more light.

The outlook for other dyestuffs however is very dark. The weather man has often predicted a white winter for us but now the Fashion man promises us a white summer—white with a large dash of tan by way of variety.

By way of getting the greatest amount of variety out of tan you can call it beige, ecru, string biscuit, sand and putty as its intensity of tanness wanes or waxes.

Fortunately we already have such charming tan summer materials in natural pongee, shantung and rajah silks, to say nothing of natural linens, that to be thus limited for our Spring and Summer outfits threatens no real tribulation.

Cotton voiles of rich beige color stripes in the same toned cotton velvet are most effective and the beige black striped are stunning additions to the new tan toned fabrics. Faille is lovely in these neutral shadings too and Spring suits of ecru accu much credit to the wearer as do the little turbans of biscuit colored straw and taffeta and the high shoes with putty colored tops.

If you remember we were caught in a sand storm of sand colored suits, hats and accessories last Spring, but

New Features in a Silk Coat

Everyone appreciates the usefulness of a silk coat which may be made to serve for many occasions and emergencies. And everyone will welcome the newly designed silk coats for spring whose arrival is hurried to meet the requirements of southern tourists. Just now both long and short coats, of taffeta and other silks, are among the most pleasing of the heralds of the new season. They almost divide honors with the beautiful white gowns of net and lace that hold the center of fashion's stage.

A point that is most interesting, in considering the silk coat and the lingerie dress, is that anyone who is clever enough in handling materials may aspire to owning them. The materials used for making them are moderate in price, and these things depend for distinction on originality of design and beauty of workmanship. A silk coat may be the most commonplace of wraps or it may be as chic and unusual as the model pictured here. It all depends upon how the silk is cut and put together.

The model shown is full, with a long flaring skirt, and is loosely belted in at the long waist line with a belt made of the silk. The collar is a very short, rippling cape about the neck, repeating the appearance of the cape idea in early importations. The management of the full, long sleeve with flaring cuff is distinctively new and original. A side-body which extends over the shoulder, is set in to the coat and is extended so that the arms-eye falls on the arm several inches below the shoulder. Here the sleeve is set in with a piping of silk.

The cuffs are confined near the wrist with a band of silk finished with a button. The belt is cut with four tab extensions, and these are decorated each with a row of four buttons, and buttons in groups of four provide the fastening at the front.

A soft and heavy quality of silk is appropriately used for coats of this kind, and they are made up in dark colors and in black.

A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Copyright by The Century Co.

CHAPTER IX

Gerry's cablegram to his mother was forwarded to Red Hill on the very day that the judge had gone to tell them that no trace could be found of the missing man. The judge was more down-hearted than ever over Gerry's disappearance and when he found the two women radiating happiness and excitement his heart sank lower still.

"I haven't any good news," he said ruefully before he alighted.

"Tease him," said Alix in a low tone to Mrs. Lansing.

But Mrs. Lansing had found new lines in the judge's tired face and she whispered back, "I can't." She put the cablegram in the judge's hand.

"What's this?" he said and read it. Then he gave a war-whoop, caught Alix around the waist and kissed her.

The first were gay that night—gay with the joy of happy people happily planning. In a month, say at the most, two months, Gerry could be here. Spring would have come. The Hill would be decked out in full regalia of leaf and blossom. It would be in full commission to meet him. They looked at Alix and Alix seemed to look at herself. He would come into his own as never before.

The judge undertook the cabling. He cabled Gerry and the message was reported undelivered. Then he cabled the American consul. There followed a long series of messages; first quick and hopeful, then lagging but not doubtful, then a wearying silence of weeks, ending with the inevitable blow. Gerry had been traced to the San Francisco river. The envoy sent on his track by the judge's orders had reached Piranhas to find the little town in apathetic wonder over the discovery of Gerry's canoe stranded three miles down the river. The paddle was still in the canoe and a suit of pyjamas. No further trace of Gerry had been found. His body had not been recovered. The people said it was not unusual. He had undoubtedly been attacked by tiger fish. In that case his bones would have been stripped of flesh. It was impossible to drag the great river.

The judge hid in his heart the harrowing details. To Mrs. Lansing he told the central fact. She was struck dumb with grief and then she thought of Alix. Almost hastily they decided that it was not a time to tell Alix and during long months they put her off with false news of the search. They carried it farther and farther into the wilds of the subcontinent. The country was so vast, there was no telling when the messenger would finally come up with Gerry.

Alix bore the strain with wonderful patience. The truth was that her thoughts were not on Gerry. Something greater than Gerry was claiming all her faith—all her strength of body and soul. She did not talk. She was holding that final communion with her innermost self with which a woman dedicates her body to pain and sacrifice. Alix was not afraid. In those days the spirit of the race—her race of pioneers—shone from her steady eyes and even put courage in those about her.

Only when the ordeal was over and an heir to the house of Lansing had raised his lusty voice in apparent rage at having been born to so small a kingdom, did the frail Alix of other days come back. As she lay, pale and thin, but with the glorious light of supreme achievement in her eyes, Mrs. Lansing went on her knees beside the bed and sobbed, "Oh, Alix, I love you so, I love you so!"

Alix smiled. Slowly she reached one hand over and placed it in Mrs. Lansing's. "You are crying because you are a granny now," she said, softly, playfully.

Then came the day when Alix was strong—strong enough. Mrs. Lansing told her in a choked voice what they knew and what everyone believed. She cried softly in Alix's arms.

"Poor mother!" said Alix, her lips against the wet cheek. "How strong you've been! How you hid it from me! What a burden to carry in your heart, and smile. But listen, dear mummy. You are all wrong. Perhaps I would not have known it if you had told me—then—but I know it now. Gerry is not dead. There is no river that can drown Gerry."

"My dear," said Mrs. Lansing, frightened, "you must not think that. It's always the best swimmers that risk the most."

"It isn't that he can swim," said Alix. Her eyes turned slowly till they rested on her son. Her bosom swelled at the memory of the travail—the terrible travail that she had borne, not for the child alone, nor for Gerry alone, but for them both. "Swimming has nothing to do with it. Somehow I know that Gerry is all right, somewhere on this little world. Only, dear," and here her voice faltered and her eyes shone with tears, "this little world seems mighty big when hearts are far apart."

Alix clung to her belief. So strong was her faith that Mrs. Lansing became infected, but the judge held out against them. "My heart is with you," he said, at the end of months, "but my head won't turn. A naked man even in South America would have caused remark. Why shouldn't he have come back for his clothes, for his money? After all, he wasn't a fugitive from justice. He was a man wandering over the earth in pursuit of a mere whim and a whim doesn't last forever."

Alix interrupted him. "Judge, I have never been angry with you. We all owe you too much. But if you ever say 'was' about Gerry again—" She stopped and bit her lip but her eyes spoke for her.

"My dear girl," said the judge and only his color showed that he was hurt. "don't be angry with me. It shall be as you say. I've only been trying to save you from years of weary waiting. If you have the courage to wait for sorrow, I shall wait too."

Alix kissed him. "There," she said, "I'm sorry I was rough."

"You're rough!" laughed the judge. Then he jumped up. "I'm forgetting my duties. I have a guest of my very own at Maple House and I must go to him."

A few weeks before, Hon. Percy Collingford had looked up the judge. It was as much a pleasure to the young man as a duty he owed to his father, whose friend the judge had been for many years.

Collingford was no stranger to America but he knew far more about dodging arroyos in New Mexico on a cow pony than he did about dodging the open trenches and debris of Fifth avenue on the trail of a tea-party. He was an Englishman, a younger son with enough money to put him above the remittance class, and he was possessed of far more intelligence than he had been born with, for, from his youth up, he had sought out experience in many places. He came back from the Klondike with more money than he needed for his passage but only a few kindred spirits knew that he had made it hammering the piano in The Fallen Star of Hope. He had the English gentleman's common creed: ride straight, shoot straight, tub often and talk the king's English. That creed fulfilled, nothing else seemed to worry him.

He was dining with the judge at the club one night when the name of Wayne—Alan Wayne—floated over occasionally from a neighboring table. Later as they sat over their coffee and cigars Collingford said abruptly, "I know a chap named Wayne."

"So?" said the judge.

"Heard those people mention Alan Wayne," explained Collingford. "I wonder if it was the same one—Ten Percent Wayne of Africa."

"That's the one," said the judge and watched Collingford's face.

"Hum," said Collingford. "When I saw Wayne he was in shirt sleeves and a battered sun helmet. There are some men that won't shake hands with him, but I'm not one of them."

It was then that the judge decided to take Collingford to Maple House for over Sunday.

SUMMARY TO BE PREPARED OF TAX LAWS OF INDIANA

Will be Arranged so Average Tax Payer Can More Easily Understand Them.

(By Dan L. Beebe, United Press Staff Correspondent)

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 9—Indiana's tax laws are to be taken off the shelf, dusted, indexed and summarized in so clear a way that the average tax payer can read them quickly and understand them.

The record of how the state, county and township administer these laws is going to be prepared, so that the tax payers can see at a glance what officials appointed and elected by them have been doing.

Then an attempt will be made to determine whether the high rate of taxation and the admitted lack of uniformity of taxation in Indiana is due to the laws or to the way they are administered.

These three steps make up the plan which Robert A. Campbell submitted to the commission on taxation appointed by Governor Ralston. Campbell has been employed to aid the commission. He is a student of taxation. His plan, said Chairman William L. Elder, of the commission, today meets with the approval of the committee.

Campbell has returned to Ithaca, N. Y., where he is lecturing on economics at Cornell University. The United Press representative button-holed him during his brief stay in Indianapolis and got his own statement of the plan that may mean much in dollars and cents to the average Hoosier citizen.

Campbell will return June 15, and will bring with him a digest of Indiana's new tax laws, which he will prepare in his library. He also will be well fortified by detailed information on successful steps taken by other states in the reform of taxation.

Campbell has divided Indiana's sources of revenue into several nat-

We Were Skeptical About Machine Bookkeeping

How the makers of the well-known Rubberset Brushes met a serious bookkeeping problem due to growth of business

By C. M. FREEMAN
Treasurer of the Rubberset Company,
Newark, N. J.

WITH the growth of our business, accounts had multiplied and bookkeeping had become more and more of a problem. Something had to be done, but you know how hard it is for a business concern to consider a new move in its bookkeeping and accounting work—even when its executives know that something of the sort is needed badly.

Something was Lacking in Our Bookkeeping

That was evident to me because statements didn't get out until the 10th of the month—and so all our posting had to be done in the three weeks that were left. A trial balance was hard to get, and statements kept our bookkeepers working overtime for a week or two every month. Prompt relief was necessary.

Interested in Mechanical Way of Handling Figures

Because of my previous connection, and the knowledge I had about the use of Burroughs Machines, I immediately thought about solving this problem mechanically instead of increasing our office force.

However, the familiar question came up at once: "It may be all right for a bank, but will it fit our kind of business?"

Frankly, I was skeptical, but resolved to look into the possibilities. We therefore investigated the subject of mechanical bookkeeping from every possible angle.

A Surprising Demonstration

We tried a Burroughs Machine on our statement work one month when we were particularly rushed. Although we didn't get started until close to the end of the month, we had all the statements out on the first.

This meant a lot to us—because, of course, early statements mean prompt payments.

I was still skeptical, however, about posting our ledgers by machine.

In the Rubberset Co. office card ledgers are kept posted up to the minute with a Burroughs

The Burroughs handles either loose-leaf or card ledgers. It can be adapted to YOUR method

We felt that we would have to be "shown" to our complete satisfaction before making what seemed, at that time, so radical a change in our bookkeeping.

It was true that for several years the Rubberset Company had used a Burroughs for straight adding and figuring work. It had proved to be a good investment and we decided to take the word of the Burroughs Company that their Ledger Posting and Statement Machine would prove an even better investment.

The Machine Makes Good

Once we had the Burroughs at work in our office, the day of skepticism was over.

Our statements are in the mail at 7:30 p. m. on the last day of every month.

Absolute accuracy eliminates all chance for complaints from our customers.

Trial balance troubles have vanished.

Ledgers are always posted up to date and our bookkeepers are never overworked.

The same Burroughs that posts our ledgers does all the other figure-listing, adding and subtracting work of our office.

And with the Burroughs we know that our books and figures are right.

A year and a half of experience makes me feel sure that mechanical ledger-posting is the method which will soon be employed by all progressive business houses. We are glad we did not delay longer in employing a Burroughs Ledger Posting and Statement Machine to keep our books.

There are 98 different models of Burroughs Bookkeeping and Figuring Machines. Among them is one that will just fit your business needs. For your bookkeeping troubles, there's an easy Burroughs-way out. Get in touch with one of our branch offices in 170 cities. Your telephone book or your banker will tell you the nearest. Or, write to Burroughs, Detroit, Michigan.

CLARK COUNTY FIFTEEN YEARS OLDER THAN STATE

At One Time Territory Now Jackson County Was Embraced in Boundary Lines of Clark.

By United Press.

Jeffersonville, Ind., February 10—Clark county, next to the oldest of Indiana's ninety-two counties, was 115 years old yesterday. It is fifteen years older than the state of Indiana, which will celebrate its centennial this year. Clark county was formed out of Knox county, which was organized June 20, 1790, and included almost all the territory that Indiana includes today.

William Henry Harrison, the first territorial Governor, proclaimed the organization of Clark county on Feb. 3, 1801. The old boundary line is not easy to be followed, but the territory included in the county originally is now divided into about a score, for it included, in whole or in part, according to the best authorities, the counties of Harrison, Floyd, Clark, Washington, Jackson, Scott, Jefferson, Jennings, Ripley, Decatur, Franklin, Bartholomew, Rush, Shelby, Fayette, Union, Henry, Randolph, Wayne and possibly parts of Jay and Switzerland.

The proclamation gave the following boundary line:

"Beginning on the Ohio at the mouth of Blue river (now the boundary line between Crawford and Harrison counties), up the said river to where the trail leading from Vincennes to the Ohio falls crosses said river; thence by direct route to the nearest point on (the east fork) White river; thence up said river to the branch thereof which runs toward Ft. Recovery; thence along the boundary line between Indiana territory and the Northwest territory, south to the Ohio river; thence down said river to the place of beginning."

The only part of the boundary which is the same today is the thirty-five miles of Ohio river which bounds the present Clark county. The point on Blue river, where the line left the river, is said to have been in the neighborhood of the present site of Fredericksburg. The line runs north through Washington county until it strikes the east fork of White river and follows that northeast through Jackson, Bartholomew, Shelby, Rush and Henry counties and then through Randolph and Jay to Ft. Recovery, which is just across the Ohio state line opposite the center of Jay county. The line strikes the Ohio river almost opposite the mouth of the Kentucky river, some miles above Madison.

On April 7, 1801, the county was divided into townships, and three towns and villages sufficed, although there are now twelve. They were Clarksville, Springfield and Spring Hill, none of them known at the present time. Springfield also was the name of the first county seat. Its history covered two years. It is now a plowed field.

MAYOR ROSS GETS PICTURES OF FIERCE STORM AT SEA

Enlargements Made from Kodak Views of Ship to which Albert Ross was Assigned.

Mayor Ross has received two unusual pictures from his son, Albert Ross, who is in the service of the U. S. navy. The views are enlargements of kodak pictures taken during a storm at sea. They were so unusual that they were retouched and enlarged after the crews returned home. One was taken on the voyage home from Italy and shows a great battle ship partly out of water during the storm. The stern was enveloped in a big wave.
Another shows a cruiser on the crest of a high wave and an idea of the height of the waves is seen by another ship which is all but hidden behind another big "breaker." Mayor Ross is justly proud of the pictures and will have them framed.

Do You Find Fault With Everybody?
An irritable, fault-finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. A great many have been permanently benefited by Chamberlain's Tablets after years of suffering. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Obtainable everywhere.
